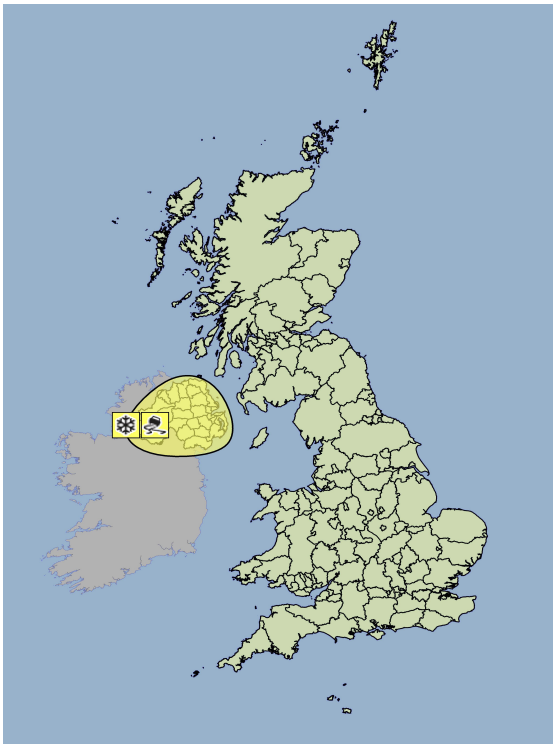
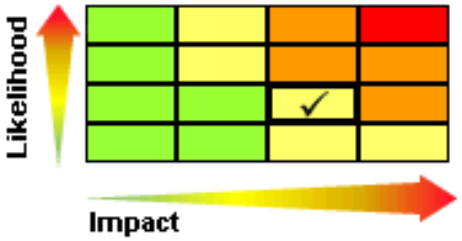
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A cold, showery north to northwesterly airstream will cover Northern Ireland. The showers are expected to fall as sleet or snow away from immediate northern coasts. Shower activity will be enhanced at times by troughs of low pressure, which could allow several cm of snow to settle in a fairly short period.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 15:00 on Thu, 14th Jan 2016 until 12:00 on Fri, 15th Jan 2016

Sleet and snow showers will become heavier and more frequent during Thursday afternoon, continuing overnight and well into Friday. These could bring accumulations of 1-4 cm at lower levels, with 5-10 cm on ground above 150 m, especially over northern areas. Icy stretches are also likely to form on untreated surfaces. Please be aware of some difficult driving conditions and the risk of travel disruption.
